Bobcats Play Themselves Into the Nation's Spotlight With Record of Grid Victories

Undefeated, untied, and with but two touchdowns to mar an otherwise perfect defensive record, the Ohio University Bobcats are today basking in the lime-light of national attention and recognition. Never before has a Green and White football team so successfully hurdled the obstacles presented by a nine-game grid schedule, taking all encounters by decisive margins and without, in any of them, being forced to wholly extend itself.

Rated by outsiders at the opening of the season as "just another team," the Bobcats stalked calmly out of their lair and annexed the Buckeye Athletic Association championship in the most nonchalant and uncompromising way that the "cream-of-the-state" conference has ever known. And in so doing they piled up a total of 306 points while holding opponents to a mere 13 points which is (on the day this was written) a national record for undefeated and untied teams. With but one more Saturday and the following Thanksgiving day remaining for gridiron contests it is altogether likely that Ohio's record will stand as the most impressive in the whole United States.

Indeed, after pointing out that the Bobcats defeated Wittenberg by a larger margin than did Ohio State or Washington and Jefferson and that they defeated Denison by a larger margin than did Navy, Lew Byrer, Columbus sports writer, remarks that if Ohio had scheduled a game or two with bigger schools the Bobcats might have been in a position to dispute the claims of Notre Dame, Pitt, Purdue, and Tennessee to a national championship.

However that might be, modesty and balanced judgment will likely prevent Ohioans from claiming more than that they have the greatest team in Ohio and probably the best team of its weight in the country.

As the 1929 season progressed one sports writer remarked that "the struggle for the B. A. A. title has become a question of 'Who is going to beat Ohio University'?" It is now possible to say that the question is a dead one.

The season closed, as far as Ohio was concerned, when the Bobcats met the Wittenberg Lutherans in the Ohio Stadium on November 22. The Buckeye championship was safely on ice prior to this game but a victory was necessary in order to maintain the reputation which the Pedenites had established for themselves.

An account of that game concludes the review of hitherto unreported games which follows.

Cincinnati. In their second Buckeye game of the season Ohio met the Bearcats, October 26, in a homecoming tilt in Nippert Stadium at Cincinnati. It was the fifth game on the schedule.

In this battle of the "Cats" the Ohioans had comparatively little difficulty in demonstrating that earlier victories over Indiana of the Big Ten, and Ohio Wesleyan, were not flukes. The Bobcats won handily, 35 to 0, and but for a generous use of substitutes, and penalties at inopportune moments of the game, would likely have added many more points to their total. In all, 85 yards were assessed against the Bobcats in penalties. The 24 first downs made by Ohio and the 2 first downs credited to Cincy speak for themselves.

The first and second touchdowns of the game were made by Hart after a 25-yard dash and following a 60-yard march. Ohio blocked a Bearcat punt in the second period with a safety and 2 additional points as a result. Kepler, Hart, again, and then Gabriel were the scoring instrumentalities in the remainder of the game, which ended with Ohio holding the ball on Cincinnati's six-yard line.

Miami (Homecoming). A report of the entertainment provided for the visiting Miami team on November 2 will be found elsewhere in this issue. Newspapermen who covered the Ohio-Miami game estimated that "Chick"

Fullback "Chick" Young

Coach Peden

Young handled the ball 35 to 40 times during the contest with only one fumble, a remarkable feat when one considers the condition of the field and the ball, both of which were wet and soggy.

Denison. Preceded by a week during which but one scrimmage was held, the annual tilt with the Denisonians, November 9, was not considered a crucial one and did not prove so to be, the Bobcats winning as they pleased, 54 to 0.

It was "Migration Day" for Ohio and an eight-car special train, in addition to hundreds of automobiles, was required to transport the team, university band, students, and Athenians to the Baptist town of Granville.

Opening up with a co-ordinated running attack late in the first quarter the Bobcats, with many second-stringers in their ranks, marched back and forth across the field apparently at will. The Green and White made 21 first downs during the game to one solitary first down for Denison, the losers escaping a complete whitewashing when a seven-yard gain was followed by an Ohio penalty. Ohio's line was impregnable while the backfield men found the going no tougher than in a scrimmage with the Ohio freshmen.

To account for the 54 points, Kepler scored three times, Hart twice, and Young, Mason and Esmont, once each. Esmont, a guard, fell on a blocked punt over the goal line. Six points after touchdown were the result of accurate kicking by quarterbacks Singer, Mason, and Kennard.

By annexing this game and as a result of the scoreless tie in the Wittenberg-Miami clash, Ohio came indisputably into possession of the Buckeye Conference championship title, "the greatest football honor in Ohio." A subsequent loss to Wittenberg in the final B. A. A. game might be disappointing in the extreme but would still permit the Bobcats to win the title on a percentage basis.

In addition to cinching the Buckeye flag race the overwhelming score accumulated by the Peden boys made more notable their national record among the rapidly thinning undefeated elevens of the country. Thus far, too, only 7 points had been scored against Ohio, and these were the result of a blocked punt in the Wesleyan game.

Marietta. Occasionally and truthfully a gridiron is referred to as "a sea of mud" but that expression is inadequately descriptive when applied to the field on which Ohio met her long-time rival, Marietta, in the river city, November 16. Quagmire is a better term. The condition of the field was warrantably provoking to the Ohio coaches inasmuch as the Marietta College authorities had promised four years ago to properly drain and improve their playing ground. To make bad matters worse the Marietta coach permitted the use of the field for a freshman game on the morning of the Bobcat-Pioneer game, with the result that it was almost unusable even before the first whistle of the major contest. The action was taken either with deliberate intent to slow down the fleet Ohio backs or without thought as to the consequences and was, in either case, inexcusable.

Because of the mucky condition of the gridiron Coach Peden refused to permit his first team regulars to enter the game and sent his second and third-stringers, clad in sweat shirts, into the line-up. Peden further readily agreed to Marietta overtures to shorten the length of the periods. Sports writers and fans generally do not know that a total of 22 minutes was clipped from the playing time and that the final "quarter" was but 5 minutes long.

Two-thirds of a regulation game, however, was enough in which to permit the Ohio reserves to run up a score of 46 to 0. If one is given to contemplative thought he can just imagine what the score might have been had there been a reasonably decent field, a first-string team, and a full time game.

"Piggy" Hart, a Marietta boy, Jerry Warshower, and Harold Kennard, each scored twice, while George

D. A. R. Chairman Honored for Compiling Roster of War Vets

In recognition of her work during the past six years in compiling the "Official Roster of the Soldiers of the American Revolution Buried in Ohio," Mrs. Orville D. Dailey (Jennie Dowd, '13), of Albany, Ohio, was this summer named to the vice-chairmanship of the national committee of the D. A. R. on Preservation of Historic Sites and Revolutionary Soldiers' Graves. Mrs. Dailey was recently appointed for the third time as chairman of a similar committee in Ohio.

The Ohio legislature appropriated a sum of money for the publication of the roster of Revolutionary War soldiers. The subsequent appearance of the book caused much favorable comment from quarters all over the United States. Ohio is the first state to sponsor such a publication and as a result of the research and editing done by Mrs. Dailey she is now regarded as an authority on such work. The book, it is pointed out, is of much value both from the genealogical and military standpoint.

The roster is contained in a book of 450 pages and has been authorized by the legislature to be distributed to the libraries of the state, chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, state officials, and members of the Legislature.

McGuffey Encountered Law Suit

Ninety years ago last month, the famous William Holmes McGuffey and his publishers encountered legal difficulties which were set in the way of publishing portions of his readers. A suit was instituted upon the grounds that McGuffey had lifted "bodily" some of the selections from another set of readers.

The story goes that McGuffey had considered these selections as common property because they had been written by authors who had no protected rights. The protested selections were "expunged," however, and other material added so that when the legal report was made there was no longer cause for action.

It is interesting to know that the first four editions of the McGuffey Readers were printed from actual type. The printers were Truman and Smith, forerunners of The American Book Co.

As most Ohioans know, William H. McGuffey was the fourth president of Ohio University, serving from 1839 to 1843.

Four Seniors Win Highly Coveted Scholastic Honor

ALL HAVE ACTIVITIES RECORD

Announcement of the election of four seniors to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, was made November 15 by Dr. E. W. Chubb, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and secretary of the Ohio University chapter. The students honored were: Laureta M. Halderman, Lancaster; Lucile Van Lehn, Uhrichsville; Glenn A. Cole, Niles; and Charles W. Etsinger, Bucyrus.

Van Lehn

Election to Phi Beta Kappa is one of the highest academic honors attainable in university life. At Ohio University a scholastic average of 2.5 or better (a perfect average is 3.0) must be maintained throughout the college course before a student is even eligible for consideration.

The four students chosen, in addition to having displayed extraordinary ability in their studies, are also prominently active in campus affairs.

Miss Van Lehn was editor of the 1929 Athena, the first woman ever to hold that position at Ohio University.

Mr. Cole is now president of the Men's Union (highest elective campus position for men) and has throughout his college career been a stalwart member of the varsity debating teams.

Mr. Etsinger is the present editor of the Green and White and is the first-ranking student in the department of Journalism.

Miss Halderman has previously been honored with membership in Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity.

Initiation of this first fall class will be an event of December 5. The annual spring elections will be announced in May.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

AFTER perusing the October number of The Ohio Alumnus one reader of the magazine concluded that from the amount of space allotted to a review of the accomplishments of the football team the editor must be a "football fan." And so he is. He admits the charge (which was not made in criticism) and comes back with another magazine rather well burdened with what he hopes is a gratifying account of gridiron activities at Ohio University. Yes, sir, good friends, this is meant to be a FOOTBALL A "Football Fan"? NUMBER and is "dedicated" to the Bobcats of 1929 and their coaches. Yes Siree. Correct.

Lest a fear arise in the minds of some, however, that Ohio University is, or is likely to become, athletically top-heavy, assurance is given that while the pendulum of enthusiasm hangs at the moment slightly out of line with the perpendicular, the tilt in nowise endangers our equilibrium.

Nothing has been said in praise of the team and its coaching staff which is not entirely merited and nothing has been done for these fellows that is not deserved. More power to them. May their kind increase at Ohio University for athletes may be gentlemen and gentlemen-athletes may be scholars. That this is true the records of the campus and the registrar adequately prove.

OFFICERS and committeemen of alumni chapters charged with planning programs for the mid-winter meetings of their groups will have available this year for the first time, for exhibition, approximately 1200 feet of Ohio University "movie" pictures. The three four-hundred foot reels require exactly one hour for their showing and will add an immense amount of interest to any program when used. Features of the pictures are campus views, well known spots about Athens, the State Hospital grounds, campus personalities and faculty members; pictures of the Dad's Day football game (Ohio Wesleyan), of the Homecoming game (Miami) and the Float parade, of the final gridiron practice of the year for the Buckeye Champions, and of the Wittenberg contest.

These "movies" have been taken under the supervision of the Alumni Office at considerable expense and may be secured by alumni chapters at a nominal rental cost. Whenever, therefore, an Ohio University alumnus receives notice that his chapter is going to throw a picture show it will be well for him to cancel all previous engagements, if any, and prepare to thoroughly and hugely enjoy himself. Next to a visit to the campus of Alma Mater there will be nothing like it.

THE sports world surprise of 1929 in Ohio has been the showing of the Ohio University football team because this squad had not been marked for particular honors this year. The resultant publicity has been gratifying to a bunch of hungry fans, however. It was one of the early notables in American literature that said something about a good mouse-trap maker and the path that would be worn to his door.

A Big Demand for Ohio's Mouse-Traps. "It is somewhere near the truth to assert that publicity has literally made some of the college football teams of the state of Ohio in the last decade or more. Of course there had to be something behind all this publicity but even in a sorry showing, a well advertised team can put up many alibis and get away with all sorts of excuses. Some of the highly rated teams which have fallen before Ohio this year, however, have notably fallen flat in the alibi column after such defeat, thanks to the determined Ohio University boosting of the recognized sports experts of the state.

"Down here at Ohio this season the coaches have been turning out an exceptionally good quality of mouse-traps and the fans are starting to wear the path, many paths in fact. The Ohio coaches, however, are not heard speaking out of turn as they know better than anybody else that next year will be another year and there will be still other years. They are content to instill the idea of team play and sportsmanship into their charges and then allow nature to take her course."—The Athens Messenger.

"A championship football team said goodbye to its student followers last Friday afternoon at Ohio Stadium by climaxing a wonderful season with a 33 to 6 victory over Wittenberg. The 1929 Bobcats were the first to bring a title to Ohio University, and they are being accorded all the accompanying honors. We'll never forget the team that has gone through a hard nine-game schedule without defeat; its feats have left an indelible stamp on our minds. Ohio has long awaited just such a team as represented the green and white this year and every loyal Ohioan shows his appreciation.

Au Revoir, Football
Hello, Basketball.

"But football is over now. The sport spotlight is being focused on Coach Butch Grover's up and coming basketball team. With the start Ohio has made this season in athletics it should not be hard to carry the enthusiasm into the basketball season.

"However, we must not expect too much of the team Grover will have to develop. Every school in the Buckeye conference will be seeking revenge for the defeat Ohio's great football team handed out. Nothing will give them more pleasure than a victory over Grover's men. The path will be a hard one.

"The basketball material is reported the best in years by Grover, himself, so with the kind of backing the student body has given the football team, perhaps the basketball quintet will be able to win more than its share."—The Green and White.

NEVER before upon any occasion or in connection with any event, has the name of Ohio University been upon so many lips or found such conspicuous and frequent place in the columns of the daily newspapers as during the football season recently closed. The editor would be the last to say that a football team or an athletic department is a university or that more than due and deserved attention should be focused upon even a championship team. Athletics are but a subordinate part of the program at Ohio University and will always be so.

Good Publicity
For Ohio University.

As a publicity creator, however, there seemingly is nothing in the world that is in the same class with a stadium and a top-rating grid squad, and when it comes to good, wholesome, well-founded, widely-disseminated publicity what Ohio grad is there who is not one hundred per cent for it. This year many newspapers have carried more column inches of Ohio University sports news after one game than in past years have appeared in an entire season.

No one can know better than the secretary-editor what newspaper publicity or the lack of it can do to enliven or depress the morale of his constituents. So, because it lightens his burdens and even more because it helps to inform the world at large, among other things, that Ohio University is Ohio University located at Athens and not at Columbus, he is grateful for whatever medium from which this publicity springs. And just a tip—if, in the future, you fail to occasionally find the name of Ohio University in your favorite daily, especially if it is in Ohio, just write or call the paper and express a desire for news of your university. Any newspaper will print what it readers want.

ON THE CAMPUS

"Background" Courses for Journalists

A large number of journalism students, chiefly seniors and post-graduate, are enrolled in a course newly offered this year, Contemporary Thought and Developments.

The three-hour course has been planned by Prof. George Starr Lasher, head of the department of Journalism, for the purpose of presenting a "background" for newspaper writers and readers. Important contributions that are being made in various fields form the subjects for discussion by members of the university faculty. A minimum of five hours of collateral reading per week is one of the things required of each student enrolled.

Some of the things to be discussed during the present semester and the professors by whom they will be handled are as follows.

Politics and Government, Dr. E. B. Smith; Sociology and the Newspaper, Dr. I. E. Ash; Trends in Business and Industry, Mr. Thomas M. Wolfe; The World of Music, Mrs. Margaret Benedict; Biology, Dr. W. A. Matheny; Public School Education, Dr. A. B. Sias; Television and Radio, Prof. D. B. Green; Europe Today, Dr. W. C. Harris; Agriculture, Mr. E. R. Wallace; Psychology, Dr. J. P. Porter; Civil Engineering, Prof. L. J. Addicott; Literature of Today, Prof. C. N. Mackinnon; Physical Education, Prof. O. C. Bird; Art in Everyday Life, Miss Edna Way; The League of Nations, Prof. Wilfred Mauck; and Live Spots in Contemporary Religion, Prof. H. T. Houf.

Freshmen Know Their Stuff

Results of this year's college ability tests indicate that the Freshman class this fall is more brilliant than last year's entering group, according to records of the Psychology department.

One thousand students were tested. Of this number, 22 received grades of 99 or 100. There were fewer failures reported this year than at any previous time, despite the fact that the standard for passing was higher than ever before.

Faculty Members Elected by A. A. U. W.

Dean Irma E. Voigt was elected president of the Ohio (state) Branch of the American Association of University Women at the annual meeting of the organization held at Granville, October 25 and 26.

Dr. Edith A. Wray, associate professor of English, and Mrs. Maude C. Matthews, associate professor of German, Ohio University, were elected corresponding secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the state organization.

Correspondence Department Grows

The Correspondence Department of Ohio University has a greater enrollment this year than ever before in its history, according to its director, Prof. S. H. Bing. There are enrolled at present 640 students from cities, towns, and villages in Idaho, Illinois, North Carolina, Kentucky, Montana, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, and West Virginia. This represents an increase of 100 over last year's enrollment.

The department offers 150 courses in the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Education. These are outlined and copies filed in the office are available for examination. The courses extend over a period of nine months, in which time credit may be received for six semester hours.

Future Publishers Attend Conference

Nine students in advanced classes in Journalism, accompanied by Prof. Lasher and C. H. Harris, '06, managing editor of the Athens Messenger, attended the annual All-Ohio Newspaper Conference at Ohio State University, Nov. 8 and 9.

Theoretical classroom training and practical laboratory experience received by journalism students at Ohio University was the subject of an article that appeared in the September issue of the widely-distributed Editor and Publisher. A picture of a group of students in the editorial room of the Messenger building and a picture of the head of the department were also published.

Only upper-class students are permitted to work in the Messenger laboratory. Underclassmen take the theoretical courses as preparation for the actual work in the newspaper departments.

Because of the nature of its organization, its facilities, and its excellent faculty, Ohio University's department of Journalism is coming rapidly to be known as one of the best in the Middlewest. Eight journalism majors were graduated in June, 1929.

Ohio Draws From All Around

An analysis of the enrollment figures just made available at the office of the University Registrar shows:

That of the total enrollment of 2,328 students, 1,178 are registered in the College of Liberal Arts (843 men and 335 women), and 1,150 in the College of Education (351 men and 799 women). Almost an even division between the two colleges is to be observed while with the sexes reversed in each case, an unusual similarity of numbers within the two colleges is noted.

That there are 1,021 Freshmen (553 men and 468 women); 571 Sophomores (262 men and 309 women); 373 Juniors (225 men and 148 women); 296 Seniors (134 men and 162 women). There are, in addition, 12 unclassified, 11 graduate and 41 special music students.

That the geographical distribution of students includes 83 of the Ohio counties, 22 states and one foreign country. The five unrepresented counties are Brown, Fulton, Geauga, Portage, and Warren. The ten leading counties in point of numbers are: Athens, 225; Cuyahoga, 163; Mahoning, 104; Meigs, 78; Washington, 64; Hocking, 50; Fairfield, 49; Perry, 48; Scioto, 48; and Belmont, 43.

Five states, other than Ohio, have each contributed 10 or more students. These are: West Virginia, 125; Pennsylvania, 94; New York, 86; New Jersey, 18; and Massachusetts, 10. From Colombia, South America, has come the only foreign student although there are many American-born students of foreign extraction.

Student Teachers Travel in Style

Ohio University's new Studebaker "Champion" bus, secured to carry student teachers and observation students to and from the University Rural High School and Grade School at The Plains, Ohio (a distance of four miles each way), made its first run on November 6.

The vehicle, a 22-passenger deluxe bus, is painted green and white with "Ohio University" lettered in gold on each side. It is upholstered in dark blue leather and has curtains of blue, trimmed with orange. Above the seats are luggage carriers which are of especial value to art and music teachers who find it necessary to carry large amounts of material with them.

The bus is to run continuously between Athens and The Plains from 7:50 A. M. to 6:30 P. M.

The purchase of the bus is a project of Dean T. C. McCracken, of the College of Education, and a part of his forward-looking program of expansion of advantages for students in education. Students in the university's rural schools are afforded opportunities for teaching not only subjects of the regular grade and high school curricula, but also the special subjects of physical education, art, music, and home economics.

The accompanying picture was taken at The Plains and shows the bus and some of its "fares" as well as a glimpse of the high school building in the background.

Two One-Hundred Thousandths

Two one-hundred thousandths of one inch!

To write it across the paper is imposing, but to measure something to that fine a degree is seemingly to delve into the realm of the impossible for most of us. Yet two students in Ohio University worked almost an entire semester in the physics laboratory of Super Hall on an experiment that required such minute figures.

They are John E. Edwards, of Athens, and Robert W. Young, of Coshocton, both seniors in the university and both physics majors. The purpose of the experiment was to find the mean wave length of sodium light by using the Michelson interferometer, an instrument invented by the celebrated physicist, Michelson, to measure very minute distances.

Silas T. Warfield, '20, is both principal and athletic director of the high school at Woodsfield, Ohio, this year.

Historic "Coonskin Library" Volumes Among The Prized Exhibits in University Archives

A scarcity of books, coupled with an earnest passion for cultural development through literature, prompted the founding of the historical "Coonskin Library"—possibly the first circulating library west of the Allegheny Mountains—at Amesville, Ohio, in 1804.

An Old-Timer

Miss Sarah Cutler, Marietta, a direct descendant of Manasseh and Ephraim Cutler, was present and gave one of the addresses of the occasion. It was in the home of Ephraim Cutler near Amesville that plans for the library originated.

So scarce were books with most of the early families that the Bible constituted the principal literature. Thomas Ewing, Ohio University's first, and perhaps foremost, graduate (1815), an early settler, knew by heart Watt's "Psalms and Hymns" and "The Vicar of Wakefield." Those two books, with the Bible, were the only literary works available to him and to satisfy his thirst for cultural knowledge he was forced to read them over and over again.

The United States Gazette, published in Philadelphia, was received every three months by Ephraim Cutler, a pioneer in the Ohio country and a one-time, 1820-1853, trustee of Ohio University. After the members of the Cutler household had finished reading it the copy was loaned far and wide, as was the custom among the early families. Other than the Philadelphia publication, few were the journalistic offerings of the East that found their way across the Allegheny range.

Complete records of the "Coonskin Library" are not available, many items of interesting information having been lost. Most of the books are now in possession of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, at Columbus. A few, however, are to be found in the archives of the Ohio University Library where they are considered to be the library's most valuable and interesting historical exhibit. When transferred eventually to the new $350,000 library soon to be erected, these books will doubtless occupy a place of honor among more up-to-date but less cherished volumes.

The story of how the little library got its name is an interesting one.

Once the idea of establishing a library was projected the pioneers experienced difficulty in raising money for the purchase of its volumes. Since most necessities were secured through an exchange and barter of commodities, many young men in the Ames settlement, and in most others as well, grew to manhood before having an opportunity to examine real currency.

Josiah True, of the Sunday Creek settlement, however, seemed to conceive a workable plan for procuring funds, and his proposal, with its subsequent acceptance and carrying out, is responsible for the name which has since become associated with this early collection of books.

True proposed that everyone catch raccoons and send the hides to Boston with Samuel Brown, who was anticipating a journey to the eastern city in a light wagon. This was done. Brown disposed of his coonskins for approximately $100 in money, made his purchases, and returned home with 60 volumes which, according to Thomas Ewing, were well selected.

A battered, time-worn record book, with less than a score of yellow leaves, survives and tells in part the story of the library.

The preamble to the laws of the Library Association contained in the book is:

"Considering the many beneficial effects which social libraries are calculated to produce in societies where they are established both as a source of rational entertainment and instruction: we, the subscribers wishing to participate in these blessings agree to form ourselves a society for this purpose under the title of the Western Library Association in the Town of Ames."

Entries in the record book indicate that at a meeting held at the home of Christopher Herrold, February 2, 1804, 25 articles were adopted as the rules and regulations of the society. Value of shares in the society was placed at $2.50. Subscribers were entitled to draw books to the value of two-thirds of their shares. Funds for the library were kept up with an annual tax of 25 cents for each member.

In the selection of the books in Boston, Samuel Brown was assisted by the Rev. Thaddeus Harris and by the Rev. Manasseh Cutler, now recognized as the "father" of Ohio University. The purchases were made on August 15, 1804.

Thomas Ewing, in writing of the event in later years, said: "The neighbors in our surrounding settlements met and agreed to purchase books and make a common library. All were poor and subscriptions small but they raised about $100. All my accumulated wealth of ten coonskins went into the fund and Squire Samuel Brown was charged with the purchase.

"After an absence of many weeks he brought the books to Capt. Benjamin Brown's in a sack on a pack-horse. I was present at the untying of the sack and the pouring out of the treasure. There were about 60 volumes, I think, and were well selected."

At a meeting of the library association, December 17, 1804, votes were cast for a librarian and to Ephraim Cutler fell the honor of being the first incumbent.

It was voted in 1807 to buy the first book case but no record of the purchase has been found.

Four years of the record are missing but for 53 continuous years chronological accounts were faithfully kept. Among other things they show that the following were librarians: Ephraim Cutler, John Brown, (treasurer of Ohio University, 1824-1875), Benjamin Brown, Ezra Walker (Class of 1826), George Walker, Nathaniel Shepard, and others.

With an increase in population in southeastern Ohio, the Dover Township Library Association was founded in 1830. Many of the books possessed by this association were exhibited in 1876 at the Centennial Exposition held in Philadelphia.

Historical works were most evident among the volumes of the Coonskin Library. The high tide of interest in it came during the first 35 years of its existence. The more frequent appearance of newspapers and the adding of books to home collections gradually reduced interest in the circulating volumes.

The desk-cabinet shown in the accompanying picture is one of the valuable exhibits in the Ohio University Museum. The books in the center were placed upon it temporarily and are volumes from the original "Coonskin" and Dover Libraries. Upon the desk, also, are two old manuscripts and a "grease lamp" which has been in the family of Dr. W. A. Matheny, '08, for several generations.

The small picture inset at the beginning of the article is of the title page of one of the Dover books, "A New Musical Grammar: or, The Harmonical Spectator containing All the useful Theoretical, Practical, and Technical Parts of MUSIC. Being a New and Correct INTRODUCTION to All the Rudiments, Terms, and Characters, and Composition in all its Branches with Several Scales for Musical Instruments; and Philosophical Demonstrations on The Nature of Sound. Board of Trustees Approve Appointment of a Number of Teachers to Ohio University Staff

As is usual, the opening of the current academic year at Ohio University found new faces in the faculty group and the return of several members from leaves of absence. The departure of some instructors for newer and larger fields was also to be noted.

For most part the replacements and additions to the faculty this fall have been in the ranks of the assistant professors and instructors, only three full professorships having been filled through action of the university trustees.

To the position of head of the Biology department, succeeding the late Dr. W. F. Mercer, Dr. Frederick H. Kreeker has come to Ohio University after five years on the teaching staff of Marietta College and fifteen years as a member of the faculty of Ohio State University. Dr. Kreeker received the A. B. and the Ph. D. degrees from Princeton University and the A. M. degree from Cornell University. Additional study has been pursued in the Universities of Freiburg and Munich, in Germany, and in the University of Chicago. Positions of prominence now held, or which have been held, are those of national president of Gamma Alpha, graduate scientific society; editor of the Ohio Journal of Science; and vice-president of the Ohio Academy of Science.

A second professorship was assumed by James Floyd Dixon, who received the A. B. degree from Rio Grande College and the A. M. from Ohio State University. His position is that of professor of Education in the Extension Division. Prof. Dixon comes from the superintendency of the schools of Worthington, Ohio. He had previously headed the schools of Jackson County and of Oak Hill, Ohio. He is an addition to the faculty.

The remaining full ranking professor of the new group is Miss Velma Phillips who succeeds Miss Louise Eckel as professor of Home Economics. Miss Eckel had been on leave of absence for the past year but due to failure to regain health was unable to return to the classroom. Miss Phillips is a graduate of the University of Chicago and holder of an A. M. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. As a teacher she has been associated with the faculties of Baker University, Kansas; Lenox College, Iowa; Montana State College, and with the Columbia University Summer Schools. She has also engaged in the work of educational publicity with Abraham and Straus, New York City.

A less detailed report of the academic training and teaching experience of others of the faculty additions and replacements is as follows:

Miss Anna Fitzgibbon, B. S. (Purdue), A. M. (T. C., Columbia). Has taught in public schools of Indianapolis and Muncie, Indiana, and in Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala. Assistant professor of Home Economics, succeeding Miss Prudence Stevens, resigned to accept professorship of Household Technology at Syracuse University.

Thurman C. Scott, A. B. (Virginia), A. M. (Virginia), A. M. (Princeton), Ph. D. (Princeton). Dr. Scott has taught at Mercersburg Academy, Pennsylvania; the University of Virginia, and Princeton University. Assistant professor of Psychology, Ohio University.

Wallace W. Bacon, A. B. (Ohio State), M. S. (Colorado). Taught three years at University of Colorado. Assistant professor of Biology, Ohio University.

Paul B. Yates, A. B. (Washington & Lee). Studied at: Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and Johns Hopkins Medical School. Has taught in Baltimore (Md.) City College. Assistant professor of Biology, Ohio University.

Edwin T. Hellebrandt, B. S. (Chicago), M. S. (Wisconsin). Studied at University of North Dakota. Assistant professor of Economics, Ohio University.

Curtis W. Jansen. Study at Institute of Musical Art (Columbia), with John Phillips Sousa and other leading teachers of wind and string instruments, and at the Conservatoire de Musique, Paris. Taught at Kansas State Teachers College two years, and at Chateau de Bures Par Villennes, France, two years. Assistant professor of Music (and director of the band), Ohio University.

Carl Oscar Hanson, A. B. (Superior State Teachers College, Wisconsin), A. M. (Iowa State). Taught in Washington High School, Duluth, Minn. Assistant professor in Commerce, Ohio University.

Mary Helen Fretts, A. B. (Ohio Wesleyan), A. M. (Ohio State). Studied at: Columbia University and Oxford University, England. Taught at Ohio Wesleyan and Lawrence College, Wisconsin. Head of Howard Hall and assistant professor of English, Ohio University.

Ernest E. Ray, A. B. in Com. (Ohio), M. B. A. (New York U.). Returns to the Ohio faculty as an assistant professor of Accounting after a period of two years spent as an auditor for the Delaware and Hudson Company, New York City.

The following persons have become associated with the faculty of Ohio University with the rank of instructors. Previous teaching experience is not here indicated.

Margaret Abel, A. B. (College of Industrial Arts, Texas), A. M. (T. C., Columbia). Instructor in Art.

Charlotte La Tourrette, A. B. (Oregon). Studied at: University of California and New York University. Instructor in Physical Education.

Helen M. McClafin, B. M. (Ohio). Instructor in Voice.

Paul F. Sebring, Diploma (College of Music, Cincinnati). Studied at American School of Fine Arts, Fontainebleau, France. Instructor in Voice.

Grace E. Cushman, B. M. (Univ. of Miami, Florida), Diploma (Institute of Music, Northampton, Mass.), Certificate (Yale Graduate School) Instructor in School Music.

Anni M. Haworth, B. M. (Ohio), Diploma (Nebraska). Studied at Oberlin Conservatory. Instructor in Piano.

Leaman L. Faris, A. B. (Ohio). Instructor in Journalism (and director of Ohio University Publicity Bureau).

Arthur W. Susott, A. B. in Journalism (Wisconsin). Instructor in Journalism (and city editor of Athens Messenger).

Grace G. Roberts, B. S. in Ed. (Ohio). Instructor in Latin.

Doris M. Sponseller, B. S. in Ed. (Ohio). Instructor in Secretarial Science.

Appointment of James E. Householder, A. B. (Ohio), as assistant to the dean of Men brings relief to Dean John R. Johnston and to the rapidly developing men's department.

Resignations accepted during the past summer were those of: Miss Eckel, Miss Stevens, Homer V. Cherrington, '14, to become professor of Economics, University of Iowa; Milo Kimball, to join the faculty of the College of Commerce and Business Administration, Ohio State University; Harold H. Moore, associate professor of Journalism; E. R. Wallace, '26, associate professor of Agriculture; Beatrice M. Loyer, '26, now Mrs. Paul L. Lomax, instructor in Secretarial Science; Virgil C. Aldrich, instructor in French; Florence Claus, instructor in Voice; Hadley Kirkman, associate professor of Biology; and Enrique Blanco, associate professor of Spanish.

Those who returned from leaves of absence of one or more year's duration were: Mary (Continued on Page 13)

Alumni Offices Seem To Be Held By College Professors But in This Case It's All Right

Last month The Ohio Alumnus presented to its readers the "life and works" of Prof. Harry L. Ridenour, '12, Berea, Ohio, president of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

This month, as promised, there is pleasure in presenting the fellow who holds the strings of the association's money bags and whose unhappy duty it more than once has been to peer into the dark and unfilled spaces of his pouches and report to the Alumni Secretary a rapidly approaching state of insolvency — William Henry Fenzel.

Mr. Fenzel was born in Athens some thirty, well what's the difference how long ago—was born in Athens and secured his early education in the public schools of the city. In 1913 he entered Ohio University and in the ensuing two years completed the diploma commercial course.

Undergraduate activities were mostly musical, for let it be known that Will has a deft and nimble touch for the "ivories" and that nothing delights him more than to "gather about" the piano for a bit of recreation and entertainment.

From 1915 to 1917 Mr. Fenzel was enrolled in New York University from which, in the latter year, he received the degree of Bachelor of Commercial Science. During this two-year period he was also employed as an auditor by the New York City firm of Tokalon, Inc., manufacturing perfumers and chemists.

The following year Will returned to the campus of his Alma Mater where he completed work for, and received, the A. B. degree, and accepted a position on the faculty of the Ohio University School of Commerce shortly thereafter. A summer, of the same year, spent in study at the University of Chicago completes his formal academic training to date, although a trip to Europe in the summer of 1927 was planned particularly in the interest of his work in Commercial Geography. His present rank in the School of Commerce is that of associate professor.

Whenever, it seems, that there is a treasurership which carries with it much tedious detail and no compensation to speak of except that most intangible and surely non-negotiable tender, honor, Will seems to be unlucky enough to get in the way of it. Being treasurer, however, is one of the best things he does, for in that position he invariably proves himself to be a capable and satisfactory officer.

At the present time the treasurer business is apparently at low ebb for the Ohio University "Who's Who" lists but three such positions in his name. These are as curator of the funds of the Ohio University Alumni Association, treasurer of the Ohio University Athletic Association, and treasurer and auditor of the new Ohio University Stadium Fund. The first and second positions (Will calls them jobs) have been held, respectively, since 1922 and 1921, while the third dates back only one year. Mr. Fenzel succeeded Prof. J. R. Morton, '05, to the office in the alumni organization.

For five years Prof. Fenzel was one of the faculty representatives on the important Campus Affairs Committee. Through his work on this committee, as well as through other contacts both on and off the campus, he has kept himself in rather intimate touch with undergraduate activities and interests. In the classroom "Bill" Fenzel's courses are popular, but deservedly so. Not for long does a student having work in certain rooms on the third floor of Ewing Hall harbor the idea that popular courses are necessarily easy ones.

Treasurer W. H. Fenzel

Son Succeeds Father as Head of Successful Publishing House

Gordon K. Bush, able son of an able sire, has taken the place of his father, the late Frederick W. Bush, '92, as publisher and general manager of the Athens Daily Messenger. He was chosen for the position by the board of directors of the Athens Messenger and Herald Printing Company.

News of the death of the elder Mr. Bush was a part of the October number of The Ohio Alumnus.

The new publisher has been especially trained for the recently assumed position. His early education was received in Athens High School and at Ohio University, graduation with the A. B. degree taking place from the latter school in 1924. In the same year he was graduated from the University of Missouri with the degree of Bachelor of Journalism. His post graduate training was received at the Harvard School of Business Administration at which, in 1926, he was awarded the degree of Master of Business Administration.

During his high school and college days in Athens, Gordon Bush was employed in all departments of the Messenger, starting as carrier boy when he was 11 years of age. Subsequently, he was employed at different times in the workshop of the plant, in the mailing room, as proof reader, as a make-up man, cub reporter, city editor, assistant classified advertising manager, and as display advertising solicitor.

At the University of Missouri, in one of the best recognized schools of journalism in the United States, he was for a time city editor of the daily paper published by that university, a paper of county-wide circulation. For a time in 1925 he was business representative of the United Press Associations, a position which brought him into contact with newspaper publishers throughout the Middlewest.

During the last three and a half years, he has been employed in New York as Director of Research and Advertising Plans for the Textile Division of United Business Publishers, Inc., and concerned with the general publishing management of the Dry Goods Economist. From this position he has just resigned to assume his duties in Athens.

The newspaper that Mr. Bush heads is housed in one of the most modern of newspaper plants and is without question the leading publication in Southeastern Ohio, a circulation of 10,500 copies daily certifying to its popularity.

At the University of Missouri Mr. Bush was elected to Kappa Tau Alpha, national honorary journalistic fraternity. In New York City he was a member of the Harvard Club. During recent years his work in the East has received notice in Advertising and Selling, Dry Goods Economist, and other professional publications.

Mr. Bush is not married, and will live with his mother, Mrs. F. W. Bush, at the family home, The Beeches, on North Hill.

Wood Returns to Native State

Dr. Ernest R. Wood, '16, and Mrs. Wood (Hazel Gettles, '16) are receiving their mail in Columbus, Ohio, now. Doctor Wood has come back to his native state to be director of state scholarships for Ohio and an associate professor of Education on the faculty of Ohio State University. For the past seven years he has been head of the Bureau of Educational Research and professor of Psychology at the Kansas State Teachers' College, Emporia, Kansas.

Does Not "View With Alarm"

Let the calamity howlers and the pessimists shout that the younger generation is going to hell so fast that there's danger of burning out the bearings but Dr. William H. Scott, '62, Columbus, Ohio, who celebrated his eightyninth birthday September 14, doesn't believe it.

Dr. Scott, who is a former president of Ohio University and of Ohio State University, and who spent 41 years of his life with these two institutions, has an abiding faith in youth.

"If," said Dr. Scott, "we compare the youth of today with the youth of other years, I do not think we will find grounds for criticism."

OHIO'S BOBKITTENS --- MEN WHO WI

THE MOST PROMISING YEARLING SQUAD

Coach Grover

ABOVE are the men whose labors and bruising practices go unheralded and unsung, who nightly act as "cannon fodder" for the varsity, and who, at the end of the gridiron season, turn in their togs and are quickly forgotten by all save the coaches.

To these men and their mentors, Freshman Coach "Bill" Herbert, '25, and his assisting staff, Lyle Mowbray, '30, and Dallas Farmer, '30, justly go words of appreciation and praise for their faithful work during past weeks. Members of the varsity squad hold these fellows in greatest respect and would be the first to acknowledge that without the determined opposition of the Freshmen on the practice field there would not have been the polished, scintillating, well-trained and disciplined Bobcat team that now claims the Buckeye Conference championship and challenges the attention of the nation. "All hail," we say. "All hail!"

Within the ranks of the 1929 Bobkittens is to be found probably the most promising first-year material that has ever donned

HELP WIN FUTURE CHAMPIONSHIPS

THE GREEN AND WHITE HAS EVER HAD

moleskins at Ohio University. We venture to say that head varsity coach Peden has more than once experienced satisfaction in the thought that with the cream of the freshman squad available as replacements in 1930, a repetition of 1929 successes is not only possible but altogether probable next year.

Of Coach Herbert's reporting squad of 125 men, 86 survivors are shown in the picture. This group besides boasting of excellent material in the line, lays claim to some corking good triple threat artists in the backfield. Last year's Frosh team gave the varsity several fine ball toters but only one outstanding punter and passer, Kepler. This year, however, there is a wealth of good pass-tossers, kickers, and hard-driving fullbacks.

Of the 35 regular backs the following are probably the leaders: Brown and Whiting, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Willoughby, Mt. Sterling; Sodosky and Sintie, Cleveland; Myer, Erie, Pa.; Cartwright, Prosser, and Moss, Youngstown; Pike, Malden, Mass.;

Frosh Coach Herbert

Rich, Campbell; Wolfe, Athens; and McClashion, Sidney.

While all are first-raters, Brown, Sodosky, and Cartwright are passers of exceptional ability and Willoughby, Sintie, McClashion and Prosser are reckoned as among the best of the line-plungers.

In the line some of Herbert's more likely-looking stalwarts seem to be:

Ends—Collins, Sidney; Beidler, Canton; Jones, Uhrichsville; Lavarack, Niles; and Beach, Delmar, Del. Tackles—Fred Jeffery (brother of "Al"), Toledo; Pohlman, Dover Center; and Workman, Uhrichsville. Guards—Buck, Wellington; De Socio, Elmira, N. Y.; Delbert Jeffery, Paulding; Morris, Oberlin; and Zych, Cleveland. Centers—Colvin, Sidney; Stocklin, Nelsonville; and Keating.

The season closed for freshman gridders on November 20. Sweaters and numerals were awarded at that time to 71 players.

Veteran With a Record Chosen By Local American Legion Post

Friendly—jovial, in fact—but, as usual, cloaked with an almost impenetrable mantle of genuine modesty and reticence, was Captain Clyde O. Gibson, '12-ex, newly-elected commander of the Athens post of the American Legion, when information concerning his war experiences was sought.

From his many friends, chiefly, it was learned that "Gibby" was one of the first five men to enter the bloody Vimy Ridge area after the Germans had been blasted and driven from their strongholds of three year's occupancy.

Captain Gibson saw the World War as few Ohioans saw it. He was in the ebb and flow of Allied victories and defeats. He witnessed the treachery of the Russians on the Western front, and saw bare-foot Orientals reduce the boasted German morale to panic. He also learned the blood-curdling battle cry of the kilted Scots.

Thirteen years ago Gibson went to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, and there joined the Canadian Engineer Corps, a fighting Canuck unit, sailed at once for England, landing at Liverpool. From Liverpool his unit was taken to La Havre, France, where after remaining but 12 hours his detachment was taken to the front.

From this time on "Gibby" saw service with the Canadians on most of the Western front. He was soon commissioned and in the drives that followed he and his men were brigaded with Russian, Indian, French, and Australian troops.

During the latter part of 1917 he was gassed, but soon recovered sufficiently to carry on again. Needless to say, as an officer who lead his men, he frequently found himself in precarious situations. If the writer knows Captain Gibson, however, a detailed and intimate account of his valorous exploits will never be written, if the only source of information is the captain himself.

The close of the war brought a discharge with the Canadian troops at Calgary. Gibson remained in Canada some time for medical treatment and observation. In 1923 he returned to his home in Amesville, Ohio, took out naturalization papers and again became an American citizen.

"Gibby" did not remain to complete his work at Ohio University but during his undergraduate days he was considered one of the school's outstanding athletes, having starred on Green and White football, baseball, and basketball teams. He is now employed as a teller in the Bank of Athens, N. B. A.

J. Brison, head of Art department, College of Education; Victor Whitehouse, professor of Spanish; Anne C. Keating, librarian; Dorothy Beise, associate professor of Physical Education; Constance Leete, associate professor of Spanish; and Doris Virginia Wilhite, instructor, and acting head School Music department, College of Education.

Leaves of absence granted or extended by the board of trustees were for: Rush Elliott, '24, and Carl A. Frey, '25, both associate professors of Biology; Hazel M. Willis, associate professor of Art; Ethel Borton, '23, assistant professor of Design and Industrial Art; Melvia L. Danielson, head of the department of School Music; and Frank B. Dilley, registrar.

Adams Heads Northern Illinois Teachers College at De Kalb

After carefully considering the qualifications and the applications of twenty-six persons, a committee on September 17, 1929, unanimously recommended to the Board of Trustees of the Northern Illinois State Teachers College that Karl Langdon Adams, ('09), be elected to head the fast-growing institution at De Kalb. The board, thereupon, with a similar unanimity, placed Mr. Baker in the president's chair and by so doing added another name to the list of Ohio U. graduates who are holding or have held, administrative positions in institutions of higher learning.

President Baker holds his Bachelor of Arts degree from Ohio University and the Master of Arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. All of the work on his Doctor's degree has been completed with the exception of the dissertation.

In 1910 Mr. Baker accepted a position in Moline, Illinois, as a science teacher, later becoming assistant principal of the high school. He remained there five years. While in Moline he married Miss Helen Baker, '11, and in that city both of the Baker children were born.

From Illinois Mr. Baker went to Minnesota to become an instructor in Science in the State Teachers College at St. Cloud. At the end of twelve years in the St. Cloud school he was assistant to the president and director of the summer session.

A leave of absence for study in Teachers College, Columbia, was secured in 1928. Expecting to complete his dissertation and receive his degree this year he, upon receipt of notice of his election to the presidency of N. I. S. T. C., set aside formulated plans and journeyed, with his family, to DeKalb on October 1.

The Northern Illinois school enjoys an enviable reputation among teacher training institutions, being one of the twenty teachers colleges in the United States that was, at the time it was examined, rated A-1 by the American Association of Teachers Colleges. There are over seven hundred students on the campus at the present time, while the faculty numbers seventy-four members. The budget approximates $300,000.

President Baker is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Pi honorary fraternities in education. He was for ten years secretary of the Central Minnesota Education Association and for one year president of the organization.

Putnam Home To Be Enclosed

A $65,000 addition to Campus Martius, state park in Marietta, Ohio, enclosing the home of General Rufus Putnam, will be constructed soon, according to Ohio's state architect.

Rufus Putnam was the leader of the members of the Ohio Company that came down the Ohio River in 1788 and landed at Marietta. There they founded the first white settlement in the Northwest Territory. Putnam, with Manasseh Cutler, was one of the forefathers to whom Ohio University is indebted for its location and very existence.

Members of the Ohio Company built their cabins in the form of a square for protection against the Indians. The Putnam cabin is the only one standing of the original group that comprised the fortress.

ATHLETICS AT OHIO UNIVERSITY

Largest Homecoming Crowd in History Gathers in Rain to See Bobcats Display Their Wares Against Miami in Stadium Dedication

On November 2 Ohio University's Bobcat team pounded a heavy and stubborn Miami team into submission, won the game 14 to 0, virtually clinched its claim to title of gridiron monarch of the state, and—not too incidentally—provided the feature event for the dedication of the new $185,000 stadium and the 1929 Homecoming program. For the sixth straight time the Pedenmen clearly demonstrated that they have a scoring punch coupled with a powerful defense, having on preceding and successive Saturday's rather handily taken the measure of Indiana, West Liberty, Ohio Wesleyan, Muskingum, and Cincinnati.

What Ohio's score against Miami might have been on a dry field is a matter for conjecture but it is reasonable to believe that it would have been two to three touchdowns larger. As it was, however, playing on a gridiron treacherous with mud and water, the Bobcats left no doubt as to their superiority. Their attack, based solely on double and triple reverses in the backfield, with an effective spinner mixed in, rolled up 12 first downs to 7 for Miami.

To Ray Singer, a stocky quarterback from Cleveland, went the day's individual honors. Throughout the game he was an acute headache to the Big Red team, his slices off tackle consistently netting from 5 to 20 yards. He put a highly fitting cap on a great performance by taking the opening kickoff of the second half and, behind perfect interference, galloping through the whole Miami eleven for 77 yards and a touchdown. In the first quarter alone Singer gained approximately 100 yards for the Bobcats while his touchdown run was one of the most spectacular dashes seen on Ohio Field in years.

The kick for the extra point after Singer's marker was unsuccessful. The Bobcats previously, in the second quarter, had counted two points on a safety which the Miamians decided to give away when their punter feared to kick out from under his own goal posts.

Several scoring opportunities went for naught during the first half when fumbles intervened to halt impressive marches. When the gun cracked to end the half Ohio had the ball on their opponent's six-inch line on the second down.

Throughout the game the functioning of line coach Trautwein's forward wall was just about all that could be desired. Brammer and Cramer, at ends, big Griffith and Hastings at the tackles, Papritan and Chrisman, guards, and Brown, at center, were as usual, steady performers. Substitute linesmen also acquitted themselves creditably.

The final scoring was done by the Bobcats in the fourth quarter when, after a march staged largely by fullback "Chick" Young and halfback Clark Gabriel which netted four consecutive first downs, Gabriel, on a double reverse play which fooled Miami's defense, carried the pigskin across the end lines for another tally. The try for an extra point again failed. Score 14 to 0.

For Miami, big George Vossler, 200-pound fullback, was the offensive star but practically all of his thrilling gains were confined to the center of the field and only once did he or his cohorts get very deep into Ohio's territory.

The Bobcats were invincible. They gained

Quarterback Ray Singer

238 yards from scrimmage to 74 yards for Miami. These figures, better than the score, indicate the margin of Green and White superiority for excusable fumbles robbed them of several chances to cross the goal line.

Rain poured throughout most of the contest, stopping only to drizzle at times and the wet field slowed up the attack and caused repeated fumbles by both teams.

In reviewing this game, Hugh Fullerton, leading sports writer for the Columbus Dispatch, had the following to say:

"Miami, backed by a loyal band of 300, came to fight for the lead in the conference only to be swept away by the fierce attack of Singer, Kepler, Gabriel, and Young, and the fast charging of Peden's most remarkable line—a line which it seems to me, is the best coached I have ever seen in the west. There was never a question of the final result and it was evident after five minutes that Miami was beaten unless an accident or a miracle happened. Ohio was too fast, too versatile, and too inspired."

As one writer said, the dedication of the stadium and the homecoming program were all "wet." The rain which fell almost continuously for two days washed out nearly all of the "color" of the occasion and kept what was anticipated would be a record-breaking crowd down to a bare 8,000. The Ohio stands were practically filled before the game but only 2,000 persons were on the Miami side. The rain dissuaded many Big Red supporters from making the trip to Athens.

Despite the weather, however, the largest number of alumni ever to make a return to the campus was present to cheer on the Bobcats. From the standpoint of an alumni reunion the day was a remarkable success, unequalled by any event in the past. It was a real homecoming.

The dedication of the stadium was, of necessity, reduced to a simple ceremony. The eighty-five piece Ohio band played "The Star Spangled Banner," as the spectators stood with uncovered heads, and the flag was raised.

A beautiful float parade containing entries from various sororities and fraternities was held on Court Street at noon, falling rain to the contrary notwithstanding. The parade was watched by a crowd which thronged the street throughout its entire length.

The award of first prize for the prettiest float was made to Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Delta Sigma Epsilon was float winner among the women's groups. For the best decorated fraternity house Tau Kappa Epsilon was awarded a silver cup.

A "thuse" meeting in front of Lindley Hall on Friday night was the first of the affairs in which the returned grads had an opportunity to participate. A feature of the gathering was the singing of "Beat Miami" songs by the Ohio Men's Glee Club.

Two serenades Friday night by the Phi Delta Theta and Delta Tau Delta fraternities were well attended by visitors but the heavy rain drove many to cover.

Tackle George Hastings

The annual Women's Athletic Association Carnival in the Men's Gymnasium brought to an end the activities of Ohio's greatest Homecoming Day. The prize for the most successful carnival booth was won by Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

"Pete" McKinley at Athens High

Burnell "Pete" McKinley, '29, for the last three years star fullback on the Ohio University football team was this fall chosen as coach and athletic director at Athens High School.

McKinley replaces Harold Wise, '28, who resigned to accept a position as football coach at West High School, Columbus, Ohio.

Sincere and deep will be the regret of friends of Harry Kaiser, '22-ex, of Cleveland, Ohio, in the receipt of news of the recent death of Mrs. Kaiser. The passing of the latter was particularly sad because of the attendant circumstances and the leaving of two beautiful children.

Coaches Give Credit to the Team, Which Praises the Coaching Staff

Columns and columns of newspaper space have been given to a discussion of the superlative merits of the coaching staff and the members of the Bobcat team. Encomiums have been written to both groups but in true, although sincere, Alphonso-Gaston fashion the coaches give all glory to the team while the grid-ders just as generously point with pride to Don Peden, "Dutch" Trautwein, and "Butch" Grover and say, "They are the victors." It is just this man-to-man attitude of mutual respect and confidence that has made possible the success that has attended Ohio's gridiron efforts this fall.

Farmer

Peden is a great coach and is now widely recognized as such. He has had attractive offers to go elsewhere but thus far he has elected to remain with the Green and White and long may he do so.

In the six years of Coach Peden's regime his football teams have engaged in 51 contests with an excellent record of 35 victories, 3 ties, and 13 defeats. The season just closed caps the climax of a steady rise in Ohio's football fortunes since Peden took the helm. He is a former University of Illinois star and was in 1922 football captain-elect. A declaration of ineligibility, however, because of a year played at Lombard College, denied him the honor of leading his team on the gridiron.

The marvelous line behind which the nimble-footed Bobcat backs have performed so amazingly this year is the product of the skill and coaching ability of Assistant Coach Trautwein. There was not produced in the entire state as smart, as aggressive, and as unified a line as this former Wittenberg coach and stellar athlete placed on the field in every game of the season. Superior weight was encountered in a majority of the opposing lines but it was regarded by Trautwein's men merely as a challenge and not as an obstacle.

Trautwein, too, has remained at Ohio this year in the face of at least one tempting offer for his services elsewhere. But "Dutch" will be a fixture at Ohio University as long as he cares to stay. His men swear by him and he is, with Peden and Grover, exactly the type of coach that the administration and athletic department of Ohio University consider to be "ideal."

Brandon T. Grover completes Ohio's coaching triumvirate. "Butch" has given most of his time to assisting Chief Peden with the backs. As a scout he has rendered invaluable service by his accurate appraisals of Ohio's opponents. "Butch" is head basketball coach and is, like his colleagues, an inspirer rather than a driver.

Lyle Mowbray, a center, and Dallas Farmer, a guard, of last year's varsity team—and among the best men at their positions in a decade—were retained this fall as assistants to Head Freshman Coach Herbert. They have had their hands full in tutoring the largest "Frosh" squad in Ohio's history. Both Mowbray and Farmer are seniors this year but each has previously participated in his allotted three years of intercollegiate competition.

EVERYBODY'S SAYING IT

It's true, of course, that nothing succeeds like success as is proved by the fact that publicity for Ohio University — the long-wanted and hoped-for crash into the columns of leading daily newspapers—has come about as a result of the wonderful record established by the Bobcat football team.

It would take the space of dozens of magazines such as this to reproduce the favorable comments and superlative praise of the grid squad that has come Ohio's way this fall. It is possible here only to indicate some of the writers and origins of a few of these press notices.

Wittenberg, Winty weather failed to slow up the Buckeye Champs when on November 22 they slashed and plunged their way through the Wittenberg line which until this time had been almost impregnable to the onslaughts of Buckeye teams, having yielded but 10 points, and ended the season with a 33 to 6 triumph.

With Young, Singer, Gabriel and Kepler alternating in their deceptive smashes, the Pedemen garnered 13 first downs to their opponents' four in the first half. This without being forced to resort to a single forward pass.

Five times the Ohioans crossed the Lutheran line with Young and Gabriel scoring twice each and Kepler getting credit for the fifth tally. On another occasion Gabriel galloped 38 yards for a touchdown only to be called back on account of holding in the line.

The lone Wittenberg score resulted from a fumble which one of Coach Stobb's men recovered on Ohio's 11-yard line from which spot Smith, hard-crashing Lutheran fullback, who completely played himself out before the end of the game, bucked it over after his team had made it first down on the 1-foot stripe. This was but the second time the Ohio line had been crossed during the season. Ohio Wesleyan had scored earlier in the campaign on a blocked punt and the Wittenbergers counted after recovering Kepler's fumble. With the exception of this one costly fumble Ohio handled the oval in faultless style.

Wittenberg had two other scoring opportunities but in each case Ohio's forward wall showed its championship calibre and stopped all efforts to puncture it.

There was not a man who participated in the game for Ohio, and most everyone on the squad did participate, that could not justly be praised for his work. Besides Singer and the other backfield men that have been named, especial mention should be made of the efforts of guard Papritan and tackle Hastings. These two seniors will be among the hardest to replace when the 1930 season rolls around.

In fairness to the visitors it should be said that they were without the services of Captain "Bill" Edwards at center, and their star halfback, Stan Plummer. But the loss of these two men was somewhat offset on the Ohio side by the fact that center Brown and tackle Griffith entered the fray after serious injuries and illnesses. The presence of Edwards might have made a difference of a touchdown or two but Ohio would have won. The Bobcats had too decided a margin on class.

* * * *

The season closed as it opened—with a victory, while in between the opening and closing victories there were more—victories.

BOBCATS HAVE HEAVY SCORING EDGE

With a tie for first place, undisputed second and third places, a three-way tie for fourth place, and holder of sixth place, Ohio's ball-toters easily outrank all others in Buckeye Conference scoring honors for the season just closed.

Ohio's Kepler and Wesleyan's Wertz head the list of scoring aces with a total of 36 points each. "Chick" Young, Ohio, stands in second place and Clark (don't tell the editor there's nothing in a name) Gabriel, Ohio, claims the third ranking with 30 and 26 points, respectively.

Hart, Ohio, shares honors with Vossler, Miami, and Franz, Ohio Wesleyan, for the fourth position with 24 points scored. Smith, Wittenberg, claims ranking No. 5, 18 points, while No. 6 goes to Ohio's Singer, with a credit of 13 points. Quarterback Mason, Ohio, came under the wire with 10 points recorded in his favor.

The Green and White was the first team in the country to accumulate a total of more than 300 points.

IT'S OHIO "AGIN' THE WORLD

Ohio won from Indiana, Indiana beat Northwestern, Northwestern took Illinois into camp, Illinois licked the Army, and the Army defeated Yale. There you are. O-H-I-O.

BUCKEYE CONFERENCE IS SUPERIOR

Turkey Day games will not affect the standing of Ohio's champ team in state football circles for with the season closed for the Bobcats and a last game defeat for Baldwin-Wallace, the former stands out as the only undefeated and untied team among the 36 contending squads in Ohio.

Little or no comparison can be made this year between the calibre of teams in the Buckeye and in the Ohio Conference loops. In only one encounter between representatives of the two leagues was a Buckeye team forced to bow to its opponent. The exception was in the Denison-St. Xavier match. On the other hand, exclusive of the Denison to St. X loss, the Buckeyes defeated the Ohioans in every game by a margin of two touchdowns or more.

The only losses suffered by Buckeyes outside their own circuit were those of Ohio Wesleyan to Army, Denison to Navy and St. Xavier, and Wittenberg to Ohio State and W. & J.

An insight into the situation is afforded by the fact that Ohio gave Muskingum (Ohio Conference champions) a 59 to 0 trouncing, using substitutes throughout a greater portion of the game.

STATISTICS? YES, BUT INTERESTING

The most illuminating thing that can be said about the Bobcats' offensive and defensive strength is that in nine games the team scored an average of exactly 34 points per game while in the same number of contests their opponents were "piling" up the points at the average rate of a fraction less than 1½ per game. Do you get the point?

BEST FOOTBALL TEAM IN OHIO

Hugh Fullerton, of The Columbus Dispatch, and Gordon Cobbledick, of The Cleveland Plain Dealer, two sports scribes ranking with the nation's best, were among the celebrities in the press box at Ohio Stadium during the Miami game. These are their after-the-game statements:

"The best team in the state, beyond any doubt. I have never seen a better coached backfield and line in my experience. Bob Zuppke had a rival several years ago, but these Bobcats are certainly there."—Hugh Fullerton.

"These Bobcats are all they have been reported to be. It's the best team I have seen this season. That running attack is the result of only the best of coaching. And I have never witnessed a better defensive and offensive line. It's a great team and deserves wide recognition."—Gordon Cobbledick.

KDKA KNOWS ITS STUFF

Friends of Ohio University were thrilled Saturday night, November 23, to hear over a radio chain hook-up originating at KDKA, Pittsburgh, an announcement that "Pittsburg, Ohio, and Notre Dame have the three best teams in the country." This gratifying statement was followed by the singing of the alma mater song of each school.

NINE SENIORS TO BE LOST

Nine faces will be missed next year when Coach Peden calls the roll of his varsity candidates and nine pairs of mighty sizeable shoes will await claimants who can fill them.

Three ends, Captain Brammer, Cramer, and Woolweaver; a tackle, Hastings; a guard, Papritan; and four backfielders, Young, Singer, Mason, and Seedhouse, are the seniors who will go the graduation route.

GREEN GOAT IS POPULAR

(Advertisement)

The first issue of the Ohio University Green Goat which was put on sale October 23, was so popular with the student body that all available copies were sold before noon of that day. Although 1200 copies were printed, 300 more than were ever printed before, there were many students who could not obtain a copy. In fact, the business manager of this publication was forced to issue a statement that the full purchase price of the Green Goat would be paid for any copies returned, as none were left to give to advertisers.

The sale of this first issue was the greatest in the history of the publication.

Elmer W. Dingeldey, Cleveland, is editor this year; Russel A. Unkrich, Sandusky, is business manager.

Alumni may subscribe to the Green Goat for the five remaining issues for $1.25. The second issue comes out in December. Communications should be sent to Ohio Green Goat, Athens, Ohio.

DE ALUMNIS

1879

Through Rev. A. J. Hawk, '79, of Newark, Ohio, the news of the death of Mrs. Hawk (Anna Thomas) has just come to the editor. Mrs. Hawk died June 20, 1929, after a lingering illness of five months. Reverend and Mrs. Hawk had observed their 47th wedding anniversary on March 31.

1883

Dr. William D. Porter, '83, Cincinnati physician and surgeon, has but lately returned, with his wife, daughter, and grandson, from a four months' visit to Europe. Dr. Porter reports that he spent considerable time in the surgical hospitals where he saw a lot of excellent work, particularly in London, Birmingham, Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Dublin. "Many of the hospital buildings," writes Dr. Porter, "are old and dingy and the interiors and furnishings are vastly inferior to ours. Their uniformly good results seem to prove that the essentials are good surgery and good nursing and that marble halls are, perhaps, not so necessary."

In writing further, Dr. Porter says, "I am saddened by the death of S. P. Armstrong. . . . He was a fine man of unusual gifts."

Concerning the late S. P. Armstrong, '84, Salt Lake City, Utah, attorney, notice of whose death appeared in the October number of The Ohio Alumnus, Miss Paula Schulte has written the Alumni Office:

"Mr. Samuel Pressly Armstrong died about 2 p. m., Tuesday, August 20, 1929, and was buried in Mt. Olivet Cemetery (Salt Lake City) the following Monday. Age, seventy.

"Since one year and a half ago I have been doing public stenographic work in his reception office. At 20 minutes to 2 p. m. I said, 'Mr. Armstrong, I'm going to lunch and will be back soon.' He replied, 'All right.' He was reading a book. When I returned twenty minutes later he was asleep with his book in his lap in a comfortable position—but he was dead.

"He has been weak and failing for a year or two. I think he had had a stroke; . . . He was brave, always said he felt well; wrote and read day and evenings to the end. I found Mr. Armstrong to be a noble character."

1892

Sale of the Lawrence Block at the northeast corner of Court and Union streets, (opposite the Alumni Gateway), by its owner, W. B. Lawrence, '92, to J. L. Beckley and Harry Beckley, '10, 2-yr., Athens clothiers, was a real estate transaction of the past summer. Both Harry Beckley and Earl Beckley, '23, are associated with their father in a men's clothing business which has long been popular with townspeople and Ohio University students.

Prof. C. M. Copeland, '96, and Mrs. Copeland, the former, director of Ohio's School of Commerce, probably have no complaint to find with the Bobcat football team for, in part at least, the winning ways if the "cats" have been responsible for recent visits of Dean B. Copeland, '20, and Mrs. Copeland, of Rochester, N. Y., and Merrill F. Cooley, '16, and Mrs. Cooley (Nelle Copeland, '15), of Warren, Ohio, who witnessed the Miami-Ohio Homecoming game; and for the expected visit of W. Frank Copeland, '17-ex, and Mrs. Copeland (Frances Winters, '16), of Evanston, Ill., who will arrive in time for the Wittenberg game.

Sad, not only for bereaved parents, but for a host of friends, as well, was the automobile accident last July which claimed the life of John D. Thomas, aged 24, second son of Judge David H. Thomas, '96, and Mrs. Thomas (Mary Ullom, '96), of Marietta, Ohio. Young Thomas was killed in a crash near Enterprise, Ohio.

Of a much happier nature is the announcement of the marriage, Sept. 7, 1929, of another son, Andrew U. Thomas, to Miss Hilda Williams, of Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Matthews of Columbus, Ohio, paid a brief visit this summer to scenes of the former's campus days. Mr. Matthews, now cashier of the Huntington National Bank, Columbus, had not previously been in Athens for thirty years.

Not long ago E. Rey Lash, '97-ex, Athens druggist, read in a daily newspaper the request of a Grand Junction, Colorado man—a native of Ohio—for some buckeyes to show his Western friends, some of whom doubted the exist-tence of such nuts. Answering the appeal Rey sent a bag of buckeyes gathered from the campus of Ohio University. In his letter Mr. Lash mentioned a university classmate and fraternity brother who lives in Grand Junction. Within a short time the following letter was received in acknowledgement of the buckeyes.

"I am this morning in receipt of a large bag of buckeyes, for which please accept my sincere thanks. Many people in this part of the country have never seen a buckeye and some doubt their existence; so now I have visible proof

"I know your friend, J. Monroe Stewart, very well. He was tickled pink to hear of you again and sends you his best regards." . . . So there you have a letter from a Buckeye to a Buckeye concerning some buckeyes, as it were.

1898

Dr. J. T. Ullom, '98, Philadelphia physician, still "follows the team" with interest and—this year, particularly—satisfaction. Early Sunday morning, November 3, he scanned the papers for a report of the Miami-Ohio fracas. He could not have been much disappointed in his discovery. His great disappointment was in not being able to be present for the Homecoming feature.

1902

Old-timers (that is, in terms of football history) will recall that away back in 1901 Ohio University boasted a pretty doggone good football squad. The captain of that team sat in the rainsoaked crowd at the Miami-Ohio game, November 2, and watched a team of a younger generation fighting for the honor of its school even as he had done for his. This interested spectator was Fred P. Johnston, '02, of Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Johnston, who conducts the "Johnston Letter Service," was accompanied to Athens by Mrs. Johnston (Bertha Hoover, ex), and by H. M. McCord, '02-ex, and Mrs. McCord (Nannie Nease, '03), also of Columbus.

1903

F. T. "Terry" Sullivan, '03, Fayette, Ohio, banker, with Mrs. Sullivan and their three children, was a guest of Athens friends over the Homecoming week-end and a spectator at the Miami-Ohio game. Mr. Sullivan is a one-time Ohio University football coach.

1906

With a medal score of 94, Mrs. F. M. Hutchinson (Mayme O'Blenness, '06-ex), of Athens, this summer won the first invitation golf tournament for women ever held in southeastern Ohio. Seventy-two women, represented eight clubs, participated in the tournament which was played over the course of the Athens Country Club.

A person whose visit to the Ohio campus last August has just been reported to the Alumni Office, is Ernest Hesse, '08-ex, of Yonkers, N. Y., vice-president and secretary of the World Book Company.

1909

Mrs. Alfred B. Pfau (Grace Conner, '09) is continuing this year as an instructor in Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, Mich.

1910

In his first visit to the campus in twenty years Redick Cheesman, '10-ex, was able to note a good many changes in the appearance and the staff of Ohio University. Mr. Cheesman is the Concrete Bridge Engineer for Allegheny county, with offices in the City-County Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

1911

The term of office of Ena Nelson, '11-ex, as Athens County Clerk of Courts, will extend to Jan. 1, 1933. Miss Nelson was appointed to the office last June by the county commissioners upon the unanimous recommendation of the Athens County Bar Association, following the death, June 21, 1929, of the late court clerk, T. L. Morgan, '03. Miss Nelson is a sister of Mrs. Clarence J. Herrly (Florence Nelson, '14, 2-yr.), Capt. Don T. Nelson, '14-ex, Belford B. Nelson, '29, and Andrew C. Nelson, '26.

1912

Mrs. C. O. Williamson (Edna Bell, '12, 2-yr.) coached the play, "Tommy," which was presented by the College of Wooster at its last annual Homecoming season, Oct. 18 and 19.

1913

Mostyn L. "Bump" Jones, '13, is a New York City investigator for R. G. Dun (credit ratings, etc.).

William A. Stage, '13, has been tendered a two-year contract as superintendent of the Murray City, Ohio, schools following a successful year just past.

NEA pictures appearing in newspapers all over the country recently were given feature positions and were accompanied by the following text. "A Seasoned Aviatrix at 17 Months. She has a good start toward the long distance flying record for girls, for in seven of her 17 months Dotty Deckard has flown more than 3,000 miles. Dotty's air nursery is enclosed, but she likes the realistic effect of the goggles and helmet in which she's pictured here. With her is her mother, Mrs. H. C. Deckard, wife of the production manager of the rairchild Airplane plant at Farmingdale, L. I." Doty's father is "Spike" Deckard, '13-ex.

Fannie C. Bean, '14, is now a member of the staff of the State Library at Columbus. Another Ohioan in the same library is Esther Helen Burns, '96.

Among the scores of verbal and written tributes paid to Fred W. Bush, '92, following his death, was one, received by members of the family of the deceased, from Prof. Homer V. Cherrington, '14, of the University of Iowa. Professor Cherrington expressed himself as being especially grateful for the counsel and advice given him during undergraduate days and at frequent intervals after Professor Cherrington had left the campus, extending within only three weeks of the death of the widely-known editor and publisher.

One of the most elaborate and modern homes ever erected in Athens is being built in Grandview Highland for D. Roe Zenner, '14-ex, and Mrs. Zenner (Pauline Shepherd, '17). The home will consist of 17 rooms, several baths, a 12 car garage with an electric turntable; a swimming pool, and sunken garden in conjunction. The house is of red brick with limestone, with old English type gables trimmed with cypress. The floors are of oak and tile. Total cost reported to be $70,000.

J. Carl Flegal, '15, 2-yr., is a supervisor in the Sales Accounting department of the Good-year Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

1916

Last July James L. Hupp, '16, of the Newark, Ohio, high school faculty, resigned his position to accept a position at Capital University, Columbus, as instructor in Education. In addition to his teaching he had expected to continue his work at Ohio State University toward the Ph. D. degree. "The best laid plans," etc., however. On Aug. 26 he took suddenly ill in the Ohio State University Library and was rushed to University Hospital where he has been most of the time since. It was expected that he would submit to an operation in the latter part of October. Mr. Hupp, prior to leaving Newark, was president of the Newark chapter of the Alumni Association.

In a rotogravure section of a recent Sunday edition of the Ohio State Journal there appeared the pictures of five sets of twins that are all enrolled in the Central School at Washington C. H., Ohio. In the midst of the group are

"John and Jean Rees." No further identification is given but if these two attractive youngsters aren't the children of Harry S. Rees, '16, and Mrs. Rees (Miriam Rang, '15, 2-yr.), then the editor will masticate his Stetson. How about it Harry? Mr. Rees is a former superintendent of the Washington C. H. schools. He is now a representative of the Rand-McNally Publishing Co.

John W. Stewart, '16, principal of the high school at Campbell, Ohio, received the M. A. degree from Ohio State University at the close of the past summer's session. Principal Stewart is secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Schoolmasters' Club.

In last month's magazine announcement was made of a change of location for John R. Goddard, '17, from the Oklahoma oil fields to the gulf developments near New Orleans. This month we are announcing that Oil Man Goddard has been transferred by his company, the Humble Oil & Refining Co., to the San Antonio division with headquarters at Luling, Texas.

Albert W. Boetticher, '17, assistant professor of Civic Biology, Ohio University, received the M. A. degree from Ohio State University at the close of the 1929 summer session.

The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch, in its issue of October 3, gave a brief summary of an article on "The Problem of the Sub-normal Child" which was published in the October number of "The Grade Teacher," a magazine of nation-wide circulation. The author of the article was Dr. Edna Rickey Lotz, '17, instructor in Special Education at the Columbus Normal School. Dr. Lotz is also president of the special education section of the Ohio State Teachers' Association, and director of Special Education in the Summer School of Syracuse University.

"The Association Spirit," a quarterly publication of the Y. W. C. A. of the University of Pittsburgh, has come to the desk of the editor of The Ohio Alumnus with a lot of information concerning the interesting things that the Pitt girls are doing under the direction of Helen C. Battrick, '18. Miss Battrick is general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. organization.

The secretary-editor has just learned of a distressing illness, lasting for several weeks, of which Robert A. Cotner, '18-ex, has been a victim. While Bob has recovered to some extent he must guard his health carefully and is still at the mercy of the "specialists." Mr.

Cotner is connected with the International Shoe Company at St. Louis, Mo.

Rev. William C. Munds, who received his degree from the School of Divinity, Kenyon College, last June, has taken up his new charge as rector of the Episcopal Church at Bratermahl, Cleveland. Rev. Munds is the husband of Catherine Chubb Munds, '18, and a son-in-law of Dean and Mrs. Edwin Watts Chubb, of Athens.

From Chicago Mrs. Kinsey O. English (Marzuela Richards, '19) writes to tell us that time is passing very pleasantly with her and her physician-husband, Dr. K. O. English, this fall. Beautiful weather, visits to points of interest and the productions of the Chicago Civic Opera Company have all contributed to the enjoyment of their recreational programs.

Of the sixteen officers recently elected to direct the affairs of K. T. Crossen Post No. 21 (Athens) of the American Legion, ten are graduates or former students of Ohio University. Besides the post commander, C. O. Gibson, who is mentioned elsewhere, the Green and White alumni are: Russell W. Finsterwald, '19, first vice-president; Roe D. Zenger, '14-ex, second vice-president; Earl Miller, '20, service officer; W. W. Lee, '08, 2-yr., Americanism chairman; Belford B. Nelson, '29, chaplain; Ray M. Sherman, '18-ex, color guard; Darrel H. Sams, '21, finance officer; and Howard L. Goodwin, '15-ex, historian.

At the end of seven years as superintendent of schools at Pomeroy, Ohio, the school board of that city has reluctantly released Wayne Lutz, '19, in order that he may accept a similar position at Gallipolis, Ohio. Mr. Lutz was county superintendent of schools in Gallia County before going to Pomeroy.

In the November, 1928, number of The Ohio Alumnus a reference was made to the unusual work in which Fred L. Plummer, '20, was then engaged as a consulting engineer associated with other famous men in the planning, designing and supervision of construction of the new Goodyear-Zeppelin hangar and factory at Akron. Fred has recently reported the giant structure, the largest of its sort in the world, as approaching completion. Plans for the Lorain Central Avenue High Level Bridge in Cleveland, which are the work of Mr. Plummer, are almost complete although construction has been delayed by a taxpayer's suit. He has now started upon plans for another bridge, to be known as Brookside Park Bridge, which will be of reinforced concrete and cost approximately a million dollars. Fred, in addition to maintaining offices as a consulting engineer at 11000 Euclid Avenue, is a member of the faculty of Case School of Applied Science.

Mary Antorietto, '20, Ohio University recorder and acting registrar, attended the October meeting of the Ohio College Registrars and Examiners Association at Cincinnati. Prof. Frank B. Dilley is the registrar of Ohio University and secretary-treasurer of the association, but owing to his leave of absence for graduate work at Columbia University this year his place at the Cincinnati meeting was taken by Miss Antorietto.

Interesting rumors concerning the matrimonial intentions of one Howard L. Hammond, '21, have been coming to the editor's ears. No first-hand confirmation is available but in the absence of a definite denial we'll want to believe that "Hammy" is about to follow his classmate and long-time friend, Walter J. Cameron, in joining the ranks of the benedicts. Howard is connected with the Midland Acceptance Corporation at Cincinnati.

1922

Word has come to the Alumni Office of the death, September 14, at Peebles, Ohio, of the mother of Mrs. Drew J. Cartwright (Mary Copeland, '22).

Thomas H. Liggett, '22-ex, former manager of the Sussex, N. J., branch of the McBee Binder Company, now holds a position in Cleveland with the Industrial Rayon Corporation.

When Dr. Harry E. LeFever, '23, a surgeon and staff member of University Hospital, Columbus, Ohio, found a burglar in his home one night lately his nerve and quick wit enabled him to hold the man until police arrived to take him in charge. Using a milk bottle as a gun Harry "covered" his man and held him with arms upraised until the cops put in an appearance. A darkened room made possible the deception.

A formal announcement of the opening of offices in the Enquirer Building for the general practice of law has been received from the firm of Sigler, Shaver & Ernsberger, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The second member of the firm is Gilbert J. Shaver, '23, president of the Cincinnati Chapter of the Ohio University Alumni Association and a graduate of the Y. M. C. A. Law School of Cincinnati. Good wishes of Ohioans are with Gilbert for a successful and profitable practice.

Alfred B. Heyes, '23, 2-yr., who holds a position with the Union Switch and Signal Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., was a Homecoming visitor earlier in the month. After completing the two-year course in Electrical Engineering at Ohio University, Mr. Heyes took further work at the Armour Institute of Technology, Chicago.

Former Supt. K. R. Vermillion, '24, of Galipolis, Ohio, is now connected with the East Cleveland school system as principal of the Chambers School.

Neva Lewis, '24, is teaching in the high school (government) in Hilo, Hawaii. Miss Lewis, Eileen Wagoner, '23, of Hamakua, Shigeru Fukuda, '28, of Hilo, and Mrs. Shannon Walker (Helen Belle Roberts, '19, 2-yr.), of Kealakekua, are hereby authorized to proceed with the establishment of an All-Hawaii chapter of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

Helen M. Evans, '24, a supervising critic teacher, first grade, in the Athens public schools, was a teacher at Ohio State University this summer in an experimental school conducted by the School of Education under the direction of Dr. Laura Zirbes.

Edward M. "Dutch" Jennings, '24, and Mrs. Jennings (Mildred Linicome, '27-ex), are living in Boston, Mass., where the former has a position in the advertising department of the Boston Post.

Supt. William E. Melvin, '25, formerly of the Lordstown Township schools, Trumbull County, is the new head of the Brown County schools.

A busy position with the Charleston, W. Va., branch of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation is not sufficient to completely estrange George J. Cavanaugh, '25, from his music. George has long been known for his skill at the piano and has recently brought out some new tunes, one of which, "Broken Dreams," has won for him many favorable comments.

1926

Arthur E. Cameron, '26, has this fall enrolled in Stanford University for the study of law. Arthur motored through to California and was accompanied for a major portion of the distance by James C. Basom, '26. Both Cameron and Basom are Athens men.

Mrs. Theron Goodson (Dorothy Minister, '26) resides in Chauncey, Ohio, where she occupies spare moments with the giving of piano lessons. Mrs. Goodson holds a Bachelor of Music degree granted by Ohio's School of Music.

Melba Woodworth, '26, resigned a position as instructor in English and Latin in the Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., high school in order to accept, this fall, an English instructorship in the high school of Elyria, Ohio.

Jennie Maxwell, '26, instructor in Mathematics in the high school at Glouster, Ohio, has received a life teaching certificate. It is believed that she is the youngest teacher in Athens County possessing such a certificate.

The joke is sure enough on the Alumni Secretary. An alumni membership fee was received for the current year from Wilda Hilda Marsch. A few weeks later there came a check from Hilda Wilda Marsch. Not being keenly observant in the matter, the secretary thought that, contrary to any past experience, one of his constituents had paid dues twice for the same period. Honesty and fair dealing prompted a return of the second check. Imagine the secretary's surprise, however, when the check came back a second time with the explanation that Hilda Wilda and Wilda Hilda are twins and not identities. Both are teachers in the schools of Lowell, Ohio. Since the secretary is, himself, a twin, he repeats that the joke is on him.

Ludel Boden, '27, has taken up duties in Philadelphia, Pa., as assistant director of publicity of the National Extension Board of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Her new position carries with it extensive writing for periodicals as well as wide travel. Miss Boden is a graduate of Ohio University's rapidly growing department of Journalism and was, for 18 months after leaving the campus, editor of the Antioch News, of Antioch, Ill.

Dean F. Kittle, '27, and Mrs. Kittle (Lucille O. Wood, '26), of Lima, Ohio, returned to Athens for the Homecoming game and brought with them the former's grandfather, Mr. J. L. Falls, of Bishopville, Ohio, a football enthusiast at the age of 81 years, who came especially for the game.

We wonder if it was homesickness or what. At any rate when Edna Mae Burch, '28, instructor in Lake High School, Millbury, Ohio, decided one day this fall to go to her home in Dayton she passed up the, as yet, commonly resorted to means of transportation in favor of a speedier passage through the air. Just one hour and 12 minutes after hopping off in Toledo Miss Burch had arrived in Dayton (156 miles) ready to receive parental greetings. Well, Edna, we think 130 m. p. h. is not so slow.

After five years of turning out successful teams, Harold E. Wise, '28, athletic director and coach at Athens High School, submitted his resignation this fall in order to accept a position as athletic director and coach of football and basketball at West High School, Columbus. During his regime in Athens Coach Wise's football teams played 44 games and won 33 of them. In basketball, his "Red and Black" squads participated in 75 contests and were victorious in 60 of them.

From a little island five thousand miles away, Shigeru Fukuda, '28, sends greetings and "alohas" to his friends back on the Ohio University campus. Mr. Fukuda is located at Hilo, Hawaii, where he is working as an accountant and cashier for the Reality Investment Company and the Hawaii Building and Loan Association. He is also editor of an English section of a Japanese newspaper. He lives about five hours distance, by automobile, from Mrs. Shannon Walker (Helen Belle Roberts, '19, 2-yr.).

Ohio University graduates find tasks to do in many unusual places. Of such persons Florence Starkey, '29, is teaching in the State School for Blind at Columbus, Ohio.

Hazel Gander, '29, is teaching English and History in the high school at Chesterhill, Ohio.

Willard Brugler, '29, Roger Daniels, '28, and Fred Maibauer, '30, have entered the

Willard Brugler

School of Medicine of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, as freshmen this year. Daniels and Brugler are graduates of Ohio University while Maibauer will receive a Green and White degree upon the completion next June of his first year's medical work. The Reserve Medical school is a unit of the thirty million dollar medical center which will be completed during the year.

Mary L. Steele, '29, is teaching Latin and English in the Muhlenberg Twp. High School at Darbyville, Ohio.

Rozella Woodrich, '29, is teaching in Woodward High School in her home city—Toledo, Ohio.

Clinton E. Horn and Marlette C. Covert, both of Athens and both members of the Class of '29, have enrolled in the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and are roommates together in Morris Hall. Marlette spent his summer vacation on the West coast.

BIRTHS

TIPPETT—To Mr. C. D. Tippet, '25, 2-yr., and Mrs. Tippet (Wilma Barstow, '24, 2-yr.), Columbus, Ohio, a son, Charles Allen, Nov. 3, 1929. Father Tippet is a Columbus grocer. Mother Tippet is a former secretary to Dean E. W. Chubb of Ohio University.

DEATHS

HIGGINS—Mr. E. Wood Higgins, '17-ex, aged 38, died July 6, 1929, at the Rocky Glen Sanitarium, McConnelsville, Ohio. Death was due to tuberculosis. Mr. Higgins, whose home was near Athens, taught school for several years after discontinuing his work at Ohio University.

AGOSTINELLI—Death, from a cause not reported to the Alumni Office, came to Miss Catherine Agostinelli, '28, 2-yr., of Campbell, Ohio, Oct. 11, 1929. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. Julia Agostinelli Malenic, '27, 2-yr., and of Ernest Agostinelli, '29. Miss Catherine and her brother and sister were all teachers in the Campbell (East Youngstown) schools.

BROWN—Mrs. M. M. Brown (Bertha Witters, '05, 2-yr.) died Sept. 23, 1929, in Euclid, Ohio. Mrs. Brown had suffered from a serious disability for many years. She was the wife of Rev. Milton M. Brown, '13, pastor of the East Shore M. E. Church, Euclid, Ohio.

JOHNSON—Funeral services for Homer K. Johnson, '24-ex, and Mrs. Johnson were held in Athens, Sept. 23, 1929. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson met death as the result of an automobile accident near Fairfax, Va. A small son, Homer, Jr., is left.

Mr. Johnson was a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines and for one so young had achieved a rather brilliant fame in his chosen field. For two years he was associate editor of The Engineering and Mining Journal and at the time of his death he was assistant to the secretary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, an organization of which President Herbert C. Hoover is a member.

LOGAN—Mrs. Earl C. Logan (Elizabeth M. Spaulding, '12, 2-yr.) died June 20, 1929, at her home in Lakewood, Ohio, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Logan was the mother of Mrs. W. A. Hartford (Inez Logan, '15-ex), Lakewood, William H. Logan, '17-ex, Athens, and John Arthur Logan, '18-ex, Chicago.

For the first time within the knowledge of the Alumni Secretary Ohio University is represented in Alaska by a graduate whose residence is more than merely temporary. This year, however, we have Ercell H. Greenlee, '28, who holds a teaching position in the schools of Hoonah, on Kakobi Island, near the mainland of southern Alaska. The community has a population of about 4,500 and is located approximately midway between Sitka and Juneau. Miss Greenlee writes: "I am teaching first and second grades. Have 41 Thlinget Indians. The beginners can all understand English but some after a month of school say little but 'yea'."
